Zmarzlik launches his bid to become the sport's first-ever seven-time world champion, after equalling Ivan Mauger and Tony Rickardsson's record of six in 2025

The Pole became the first rider to win the FIM Speedway World Championship four years in a row last season - now he bids to make it five in succession

Zmarzlik has a fine Landshut record - finishing 2nd in 2024 and 1st in 2025

His 2025 victory came despite him having last choice of starting positions for racing. He was sent to the back of the line after being late for the starting position selections, despite winning the sprint race

Kurtz raced to a record-breaking five straight Speedway GP wins at the end of last season - eclipsing Tony Rickardsson's record of four set in 2005. Can he make it six in a row in Landshut?
He finished 2nd in the 2025 Speedway GP World Championship - just a point behind champion Bartosz Zmarzlik
He was outscored in the five sprint races by Zmarzlik 10-9. Kurtz also crashed while leading his LCQ in Prague - an incident that cost him at least seven championship points - these proved decisive
Kurtz made his full-time SGP debut in Landshut last year - taking 4th place. This was after he finished in the top two after 20 heats to advance straight to the final
